Meet David Teague

"I'm beyond excited at the opportunity for University of Delaware to partner with CEB to educate the next generation of change-makers in our state."  -David Teague, Acting Director UD AAP

David Teague is the Acting Director of the statewide University of Delaware Associate in Arts Program. As Acting Director, he is committed to making an affordable UD degree accessible to Delawareans.

David is also a Professor of Literature and Creative writing, and the author of six children’s books, including the award-winning How Oscar Indigo Broke the Universe and Put It Back Together Again.

The CEB is a collaborative ecosystem where unique mission-aligned organizations are dedicated to creating a community environment that supports the success of every student. Through the CEB Collaborative, we work with our tenant partners to educate, prepare, and inspire our students to make the world a better place. I would love to share more about the vision and work of the CEB Collaborative. Please call me at 302.660.4800.

Linda Jennings, CEO

The University of Delaware Associate in Arts Program (AAP) is a two-year degree program that offers UD courses, taught exclusively by UD faculty, in small classes at the Community Education Building in Wilmington and on Delaware Tech campuses throughout the state.

The Delaware SEED Scholarship covers AAP tuition for eligible full-time Delaware residents. For other students, tuition is substantially lower — approximately one-third the cost of tuition at UD's main campus in Newark.

With campuses in Wilmington, Dover and Georgetown, the AAP allows Delaware students to stay close to home while completing the core courses required of all UD undergrads. After earning their Associate in Arts degree, most students then choose to transition to UD's Newark campus to pursue their four-year bachelor's degree.

WORD: WRITE HERE!
UD AAP & CEB Collaboration

WORD: Write Here! is a collaborative project that will comprise a series of workshops in which community members create “6-word stories” in a process facilitated by teaching artists and writers from UD, the CEB, and the Wilmington Community.

The project will start with three “micro fiction” workshops at CEB that will produce individual 6-word stories authored by project participants, who will be invited from CEB schools and other community partners such as Girls, Inc. Creating personal stories in this adaptive, user-friendly form will free participants to share narratives and collaborate.

After participants write a 6-word story, artist-teachers will help them create a graphic version to fully explore the impact of their words and increase the narratives' potency. Participants will take their image/text creation home with them.

Participants will also compose a larger collaborative narrative from the 6-word stories, each story becoming a sentence in a greater tale, creating an extended chronicle executed as a bricolage of the individual works of art. These works will be exhibited at CEB and across Wilmington.

LEVELS AND LAYERS
UD AAP & DiAE Collaboration

DiAE’s “Levels and Layers” Professional Development will introduce Wilmington art educators to a multidisciplinary residency experience. Teachers, recruited from CEB and Wilmington neighborhood schools, will have the opportunity to participate in art-making in three different art disciplines, each focused on a different aspect of the final experience. DiAE teaching artists will create an expanded version of what “day 1” of a three day residency would feel like for the students.

The educators will engage in art-making, specifically focusing on the Delaware Art Standards of Creating and Presenting/Performing/Producing. The session will culminate with a performance/presentation of our focus work during the day and a group reflection and sharing. Educators will receive a total of 7.5 hours of professional development training.
